What does a “cornerstone” and a “plumb line” have to do with the song “In Christ Alone”?

When artists Stuart Townend & Keith Getty saw their song come together in its theological depth and poetic expression they knew it could be an expression of worship in the church and in individual lives.

They recognized that the words of the song visualized a cornerstone and plumb line as mentioned in Isaiah 28:16 -17.

A cornerstone is the first stone to be set and determines position of all pieces laid afterwards. A plumb line is a cord with a weight which when dropped creates an exact vertical line. It doesn't change or move. It remains true...all work must line up with it.

Isaiah 28:17 says justice is our measuring line and righteousness is our plumb line.
